

Rich's Debunking

Cocktails at 6:00

Meeting to be started at 6:45

Moderator: "I want to welcome all of you tonight to the debunking of Rich Flynn. I want to get the meeting started right away but Holly has not arrived yet. She and a few of the ladies had their own celebration earlier this evening. I don't know why they aren't here yet, they should have arrived by now. Did anybody call to see if they had left yet? Checked the hospital? Well, until they show up, we need to get started." (Enter Holly)

DEBUNKING

Begin at 8:00

Setting: All the guests are seated down below at their tables. Rich is seated in a single chair up front (stage left), the podium in the middle and the blackjack table to the right.

Hung in the background is the Mexico banner.

Welcome: "As a little prologue, tonight, we are going to praise our outgoing President in our own little way. We hope to have some fun, poke some fun. Remember that whatever happens tonight, it is all in fun. As you will notice, Rich is firmly seated in a chair and not seated up off the floor, definitely not at any height. This was mandated by our insurance company, otherwise, the club just could not afford the premiums. As it is, the premiums are costing a neck and a back. I think that is because of Holly.

BANNER SKIT

Immediately following the prologue, a Rich-clone will come in and steal the banner. The two cops will rush in and arrest the real Rich. The end result is to have Rich draped in the banner he stole in Mexico City.

Moderator: "Hold it, hold it! We are in the middle of a very important meeting here. Can't we negotiate a delay or postponement of this arrest of a most heinous crime? I know that he is a despicable person and deserves his just due - in a matter of speaking the respect that he deserves."

BOARD MEETING SKIT

Several Rotarians are sitting in a circle around a tub of ice with lots of Bud visible.

Moderator: "The setting that we see before us is the monthly board meeting, this particular one is at our esteemed president's house. As we all know, it is the duty of the board's spouse at which house the meeting is held to fix a scrumptious dinner (unless you don't have a spouse). As we have already noticed, Holly has arrived home from another mishap with the car and faithful to her duties is in the kitchen fixing dinner as we speak."

Rich: "Before we bring this meeting to order, I may get interrupted by a call from my lawyers about another accident that Holly was involved in today. She's ok and faithful to her duties Holly is in the kitchen fixing us a gourmet dinner. (Sure, and the Pope will lead us in prayer next Friday)"

Moderator: "Now as the meeting is opened. You have to remember that this is the opportunity for our most respected members of Almaden Valley Rotary to conduct business of the most important nature. These monthly meetings are where the most important club decisions are made.

Rich: "Pass me another beer."

Moderator: "And I am certain that the cocktail hours before the start of the meeting will certainly keep their heads very clear."

Rich: "Let's bring this meeting to order.. Let's see, Bob Jones is not here, so we will dispense with the minutes. Hersh is not here, so forget the budget. Maybe we should change the meeting day from Wednesday so that we can get a quorum."

Moderator: "Our new incoming president did just that - probably to make sure that Rich could not attend. Smart, Ed, smart. Now, the Almaden Valley Rotary this year can be very proud of their fundraisers this year. Listen in on how the club was so successful in raising such big sums."

Rich: "The first point of business tonight is the fund raiser coming up this weekend. We don't have much time left. I figure that we should be able to raise $5000 with this fund raiser. OK, Paul you're in for $1000, Mike, $1000, Dean, $1000 - that leaves $2000 for me. That's good for me.

Moderator: "Rich had another point of business that was bothering him and has been a sore point over the past several years."

Rich: "The meetings have been very noisy - in fact DOWNRIGHT ROWDY. And it is something that concerns me and I would like to receive my due respect. In fact, WHAT DOES A PERSON HAVE TO DO TO GET A LITTLE RESPECT AROUND HERE? The members are talking with each other and paying no attention to Rich. I guess I wasn't supposed to read that."

"I've come up with an idea that will solve all the noise problems during our luncheon meetings. My suggestion is THAT EACH OF YOU ATTEND ANOTHER CLUB'S MEETING FOR THE NEXT FEW WEEKS. And we'll see if that solves the problem."

Moderator: "Almaden Valley Rotary can also be very proud of their projects and the way the club digs in and works their hands to the bone - led by our esteemed president, of course. In fact, our president is a master at delegating his authority - with hands on, the keyword."

Rich: "Guys, we have a very important project coming up. We're going to construct the facade for the Leland High School grad night. I want all of you to sign up and get involved. Personally, I'm going to be out of town, but I'm sending my worker, Doug, to help with the construction. DON'T WORRY I'M PAYING."

"I do need to voice a complaint that he had from the last construction project that we were all involved in - MAKE sure that the beer is available to HIM also. He didn't mind you guys sitting around watching and drinking, but SHARE, ok."

Moderator: The board meeting was adjourned to a platter full of Togo sandwiches.

From Rich's board, we move on to the final board meeting of the year that occurs in Reno.

Gibson: From what I understand, it has been awhile since the President's debunking has included spouses. Personally, I hope that it might become a tradition because the nature of the club has changed with the entry of women.

I have several presentations to make to Rich. And I am truly proud to be the one to acknowledge him for all of his efforts for the past year - his time, his money and his dedication. So, I am proud to give you your President's pin which according to Bob Jones is a real diamond. You will have to trust him, I know that I haven't been very successful with diamonds, but here goes. And your Past President's badge. And finally, a gift from the club, a gavel with your name and date of presidency.
